

jacobsHack! 2019

Sponsorship Package

The hack is back this 2019! The sixth edition of jacobshack!, our annual student-run hackathon at Jacobs University in Bremen, Germany, is taking place on November 9th -10th.

Since the founding of jacobshack! in 2014, the event has been a huge success. In previous editions, we have welcomed students from over 30 different nationalities, making us one of the most diverse hackathons in Europe. The multicultural nature at jacobshack! often leads to original solutions for technical and non-technical challenges. Our participants' final projects have featured ideas spanning a variety of topics such as health care, education, lifestyle, transport, and communication.

As a student-run hackathon, sponsors have always played a special role in our event. By collaborating with companies that create social value, we seek to empower our participants with their expertise and well-rounded experience in order to achieve the very best results.

It is with pleasure that we invite you to be one of the sponsors for jacobshack! this year. Your contribution will not only allow you to be a part of this event, but will also grant you access to a pool of highly skilled students, give you a chance to promote your brand, introduce yourself to the next generation of developers, and allow you to receive feedback from young talented minds.

Please take a look at our sponsorship opportunities listed in the table below, you shall see the different sponsorship levels and their respective benefits.
